

FatCow Review

Don't you just hate it whenever your web hosting provider fails you? I'm pretty sure you must have heard countless of stories depicting how webmasters often struggled in maintaining their web hosting account, whereby the web hosting provider tends to perform below par, which resulted in various agonizing moments, such as laggy website connectivity, server unavailable, or worst – your files might even start to disappear mysteriously on a daily basis.

Well, successful web entrepreneurs often share a similar secret – they ALL subscribe to a good web hosting plan that is provided by a credible and established web hosting company – period.

If you have been following through this page till now.. it's all because you want to find a good web hosting provider to host your websites.

So let me cut straight to the point…

A good web hosting company, usually meets the following expectations:

- 1) Has been providing reliable web hosting services for more than a decade now
- 2) Employs 2 data centers as their web hosting infrastructure
- 3) Provides 24/7 server support and dedicated customer service to their clients
- 4) Has virtually unlimited access to bandwidth and disk storage space
- 5) But most importantly – the web hosting company must also price their services rather REASONABLY too

Based on the expectations mentioned above, FatCow hosting DOES meet these expectations.

Here's why:-

- 1) FatCow has been providing reliable and trustworthy web hosting services since 1998 – that's OVER A DECADE of experience in the respective field! Surely, if FatCow is a bad web hosting provider, they won't even last 2 years in business.
- 2) FatCow operates two data centers – one in Boston, and another in MA. Running 2 data centers would enhance data reliability, improve website availability, increase server connectivity, which ultimately translates into the best web hosting services.
- 3) FatCow maintains a dedicated team of server experts to maintain and scrutinize their servers, so that web hosting subscribers like you can enjoy the best web hosting experience when using their services.
- 4) FatCow owns over 800 servers that have a combined disk storage capacity of half a Petabyte – that's 500 terabytes! And couple this with M71 routers that are able to handle tremendous amount of network requests and bandwidth, such services are truly indispensable.
- 5) FatCow also prices their web hosting services very affordably, whereby you can hire their services for under $60 – A YEAR! Also, make sure you apply the right FatCow coupon, in order to enjoy further discounts for your purchases – FatCow coupons can be found here!
